SCARCITY OF WORK

Railroads Must Stop Construction Work Soon.

The Scarcity of Labor Results in Much Expense and Inconvenience.

DOUBLE TRACKING DELAYED

Although it has been more or less a serious proposition from the outset of the double-tracking between Memphis and Fulton, Ky., the Illinois Central has found the scarcity of labor and the consequent exorbitant price for same an obstacle against which it does not propose to strain itself to overcome at this time. Hence the work of double-tracking, along part of the route at least, will be suspended until labor conditions improve or adjust themselves better to the necessities of the progress of the day.

The Illinois Central has been paying for ordinary unskilled labor 35 to 75 per cent more for nine hours a day work than ever before, and that even at this extraordinary price is unable to obtain sufficient labor to make the progress in the work necessary to the demands of the situation. The scareity of unskilled labor is attributed to the prosperous conditions prevailing over the country, every town and city utilizing all the labor obtainable in the various lines of employment that contribute to growth and improve-

It is said that the Illinois Central will resume the work of double-tracking next year, or as soon as sufficient labor can be obtained to complete the task now partially finished.

The work of double-tracking will not be suspended along the entire route between Memphis and Fulton, but at such places where the scarcity of labor is most pronounced. This scarcity is felt with especial force at Halls, Tenn., about 100 miles below

The situation now confronting the Illinois Central at Halls suggests the main cause for the determination of railroad managers to withhold plans for future construction work. It is a fact that new railroad construction will be discontinued after the completion of contracts now in course of execution, and the cause of it is the scarcity of labor and the consequent exorbitant prices demanded by that which is available.

It is predicted that within five or six months the labor now demanding

WILL BUY FORT

It Will Not be Long Until Old Fort Massac is Sold.

To Be Made National Park-D. A. R. Working Hard for It.

The Illinois Central will build a line to Old Fort Massac, near Metropolis, if it becomes a national park.

It is understood from Illinois papers that the first thing to be done this fall is the purchase by the Daughters of the Revolution of the historic place.

This is the only post in Illinois which relates to revolutionary history, and it was at this point that the flag was first unfurled in Illinois. With the securing of innumerable historic spots all over the United States, it is no wonder that Illinois Daughters desire to preserve the old fort, which is essociated with the name of George Rogers Clark.

The history of the bill sent through the legislature last winter and the earmest effect made by the women of the It is not so well known however, that some of the state chapters did much in its behalf. The purchase is now but a matter of short time, but the preceding events required patience natriotism and persistency on the part of the promoters.

It was decided at the national congrees of the Daughters at Washington, that an effort should be made for the servation of historic spots of revolutionary fame. A bill was drafted et once to be sent to the Illinois legislature, a copy of which was sent to every chapter in the state, directing the Daughters to sign the petition asking the passage of the bill.

Reed Green, the present owner of the old fort, does not think it necessary to build a sea wall to prevent the encroachment of the river. "The Fort," he says, "extends out into the river, that it is situated on a point at 000 acres of fine oil land in Whitley a place where the river makes a bend. They were introduced by John T. Shelby, the well known lawyer of this city, a lifelong Democrat, who declared that he wanted to see the Republican ticket in this state elected, because it would mean a more honest administration of public affairs. He dwelt at length upon Mr. Shaw's skill as a financier, and said Mr. Yerkes needed no introduction.

He spoke for twenty minutes and surprised Lexington Democrats by the way in which he showed up the administration of Governor Beckham. He is the law partner of Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge, who is supporting the Democratic ticket.

Mr. Shaw spoke first, dwelling solely upon national issues, the currency question consuming most of his time. Mr. Yerkes made a forceful speech, and was greeted by hundreds of his friends, who came from far and near the administration.

He brought his arguments nearer home than did Mr. Snaw, applying them to state questions, especially regarding the management of the prisons under Democratic administration. and the collection of the war claim by are caught in the quarantine. Osptain U. C. Calhoun.

THE DOG INVITED TO SUPPER.

Find Another Dog.

A certain rich man invited a person of high rank to sup with him. Extraordinary preparations were made for the repast, all the delicacies of the season provided. The Dog of the host, having long wished to entertain another Dog, a friend of his, thought this would be a capital time to ask him to come. As soon, therefore, as it fell dusk, the invited Dog came, and was shown by his friend into the kitchen. The preparations there filled him with astonishment, and he resolved that when the time came he would eat enough to last him for a week. He wagged his tail so hard, and licked his chops in anticipation with so much vigor, that he attracted the notice of the head cook, who, seeing a strange Dog about, caught him up by the tail, and, after giving him a swing in the air, sent him flying through the open window into the street. He limped away, and was soon surrounded by a lot of Curs to whom he had boasted of his invitation. They asked him eagerly how he had fared. "Oh, rarely," answered he. "I went on to that how he had fared. "Oh, rarely," answered he. extent that I hardly knew which way I got out of the house."

Mrs. M. A. Duvall, of Paducah, the mother, denied this claim. Mrs. Flora Chamberlain Duvall was never of the marriage, but she gave a deposition in the Federal Court swearing that it had taken place.

The contest between the mother aud the supposed wife has been bitter. Mrs. M. A. Duvall went to Dubois county a short time ago and filed objections to the application of Flora Chamberlain Duvall for papers of administration, therefore making herself liable to the jurisdiction of that court. At the same time she filed suit in court here as administratrix of Reginald Duvall against Flora C. A LITTLE TOO LATE.

The Democratic administration in Paducah cannot fool the people by locking the stable door after the horse has been stolen. The arrest of one gambler and one concern that is alleged to have permitted gambling does not bear the stamp of sincerity, because it came at such a late time, and after divers gambling resorts had been allowed to run unmolested for a year or more. The gamblers have begun to leave Paducah, because they see that they are up against it. They did not leave before because they were secure in the protection being afforded them by the administration, and felt that they could do as they pleased.

They see now that the insvitable result of misjudging public sentiment has been their undoing. They got so bold that they would stand around on corners and tell how much money they won the week before. The ad- | SLEETH'S TOILET CREAM ministration did not want to arrest formatter

They would not dare stay here if the laws were enforced against them. They have stayed here because they were given protection. With twelve or fifteen games running nearly every day and night for weeks and months, and although every man who runs a game commits a penitentiary offense, no effort was made to stop them. It is foolish for the city officials to now arrest one man for gaming and one firm for suffering it. It is discrimination, and fair-minded people do not approve of discrimination. If a few of these arrests had been made months ago, at least one foul crime would have been obviated, although Mr. Yeiser might have lost a few votes. It is fortunate the people found out in time. VOTING ONES' PRINCIPLES:

The present situation in Paducah is now well known to everybody. Scores of Democrats since the tragedy that occurred in a gambling den Sunday night with an open saloon underneath. have openly declared that they will vote against the present Democratic ticket. They will vote the Republican ticket, for in this way only can they count on certain victory over the present crowd. They cannot defeat them by voting for the independent ticket. It is very probable that the joint street committee of the general council will allow Contractor Terrell to substitute soft limestone for hard lime stone for curbing in paving the streets. The committee was authorized by the council last hight to act, and it is presumed that if it permits the use of the soft stene it will provide for the proper deductions from the price paid Contractor Terrell. The paved streets have to be paid for by the people, and in order to protect the people the Sun desires to state that the difference in quality between the hard limestone the contract calls for, which Contractor Terrell is said to be unable to get. and the soft limestone, which it is suggested he be allowed to get, is considerable and the difference in cost will ran about $150 to the block. If the committee does not make the proarrest of the guilty for perjury, as per deductions the people who have to they have been in the habit of doing pay for the streets will thus be charged about $150 a block for something they do not get, or nearly $1,-000 on the whole job. It is probably the intention of the committee to make the proper deduction. It is hoped so, at least. The city has already given Mr. Terrell the job at sbout $1500 more than he contracted the first time to do it for, and afterwards presented him with a check for $500. This is enough to give any contractor, no matter how solid he is with

All good citizens who are sincere in their desire to give Paducah a better and more progressive government should remember that they can't do it by dividing the opposition vote between the independent and Republican tickets. The sure way is to vote the Republican ticket. Even if the better class of Democrats do not like the Republican ticket nothing could be worse than the present administration, and to defeat it should be the chief aim of every good citizen.

If you get out and ask the gamblers why they were allowed to run almost so you could see them, they will tell you, "because we are for Yeiser." All good citizens should remember this when they go to vote two weeks

Blaltimore, Oct. 20-Y. a day of marked excitement in the financial and business circles of Balti-

The day began with the announcement of the failure of the Maryland Trust company and, except to only a initiated few, the news came like a bolt out of a clear sky.

Later there came another bolt, the suspension of the Union Trust company, and it was this latter event, which happened at a late hour in the day, that gave impetus to a varied number of rumors as to other financial institutions which might well have created a panic had they been given currency earlier in the day.

Allan McLane, third vice president of the Maryland Trust company, was appointed to take charge of the affairs of that company. Miles White, Jr., first vice president of the Union Trust company, was appointed receiver of that institution. Mr. McLane gave bond in the sum of $2,000,000, and Mr. White in the sum of $1,000,000.

The total liabilities of the two companies exceed $10,000,000.

The Maryland Trust company and the Union Trust company were not jointly interested in any enterprise, so that the suspension of one had no direct bearing on the other.

The suspension of the Maryland company is solely due to large loans advanced to the Vera Cruz and Pacific railroad. It is said that these loans aggregate in excess of $6,000,000.

The Vera Cruz and Pacific railroad runs across the Ithmus of Tehanntepec, and establishes a new trans-continental route, connecting on one side with the Atlantic ocean and reaching the Pacific on the other side. On the Atlantic side the terminals are at Vera Oruz and on the Pacific side at Salina Oruz.

Alfred Bishop Mason of New York. as president of the company, directed its construction, and made several visits to Baltimore to confer with the officials of the trust company. The building of the road was slow work on account of the difficulties found in the construction of railroads through a tropical country. One year was consumed in surveying, and about three in the work of construction, which was completed early this year. Receiver White of the Union company, states that the closing of the doors of that company was due to a run upon it by depositors in consequence of the announcement of the failure of the Maryland Trust compa-

Willis Mount to be Given Hearing Tomorrow

Coroner's Jury Charges Unprovoke Murder Yesterday Af-

THE EVIDENCE GIST

The examining trial of Willis Mount, in jail charged with the wilful murder of Willis Nutty, the jockey, is set for tomorrow before Judge Sanders, in the police court, and will doubtless attract a large crowd.

The commonwealth will use every precaution to prevent perjury in the trial, and a representative stated today that he had fixed it so he thought it will be impossible for any of the witnesses to swear falsely.

The inquest held yesterday afternoon by Coroner Peal ended about 4 o'clock in a verdict of unjustifiable homicide as follows:

"Paducah, Ky., Oct. 19, 1903. "We, the jury, find that the body now lying before us dead, is supposed to be that of Will Nutty, and that he came to his death from two pistol

He also stated that Nutty put his hand in his pocket when Mount came to wards him.

There had been some difficulty in ascertaining the number of spectators in the room at the time of the shooting and although Phelps had been in a few minutes only, remembered that there was something like eight men present. Among those he remembered were Will Bishop, Sam Myles, John Whitnell, Willis Mount, Will Nutty and "Young" Atkinson. Of these only Phelps and Bishop could be found to testify before the coroner's jury.

Phelps stated that when Mount arose from the bed and made towards Nutty who "stood pat," that he made for the door and started down the steps, "not caring to witness any trouble' and that both shots were fired in quick succession. He returned later and saw Nutty lying on the floor with his face to the floor dead. He nad not seen Mount since the shooting

After this witness was finished with, the jury retired and returned the verdict as in accordance with the above.

Meantime Hamilton and Helm had pent a part of the afternoon and even-ng, as usual, at cards. Helm broke off the game and went to his quarters rather early for him, leaving the governor alone and in a bad temper, because Farnsworth, when he had sent for him, could not be found. Three times his orderly returned in as many hours with the same report. The capain had not been seen or heard of.

Naturally this sudden and complete disappearance, immediately after the reprimand, suggested to Hamilton an impleasant possibility. What if Farns-

Hamilton sat for some time after Helm's departure, thinking over what he now feared was a foolish mistake.

Presently he buckled on Affice's rapier, which he had lately been wearing as his own, and went out into the main area of the stockade. A sentinel was tramping to and fro at the gate, where a hazy lantern shone. The night was breathless and silent. Hamilton approached the soldier on duty and asked him if he had seen Captain Farnsworth, and, receiving a negative reply, turned about puzzled and thoughtful to walk back and forth in the chill, foggy

Presently a faint yellow light atracted his attention. It shone through porthole in an upper room of the blockhouse at the farther angle of the stockade. In fact, Alice was reading by a sputtering lamp a book Farnsworth had sent her, a volume of Ronsard that he had picked up in Canada.

Iamilton made his way in that direct tion, at first merely curious to know who was burning oil so late, but after a few paces he recognized where the light came from and instantly suspected that Captain Farnsworth was there.

Indeed, he felt sure of it. Somehow he could not regard Alice as other than a saucy holden, incapable of womanly virtue. His experience with the worst element of Canadian French life and his peculiar cast of mind and character colored his impression of her. He measured her by the women with

There sat for some time motionless beside was a short struggle with the seared the door, while the clouds thickened overhead. It was late when he arose remnant of his better nature, and then he tried to open the door, but it was and glided away shadowlike toward the fort, over which the night hung black, chill and drearily silent. The Alice heard the slight noise and breaking off her reading turned to look. Hamilton made another effort to enter before he recollected that the wooden key, or notched lever, that controlled the cumbrous wooden lock hung on a peg beside the door. He felt for it along the wall, and soon laid his hand on it. Then again he peeped through to see Alice, who was now standing upright, near the swivel. She had thrown her hair back from her face and neck; the lamp's flickering light seemed suddenly to have magnifled her stature and enhanced her beauty. Her book lay on the tumbled wraps at her feet, and in either hand she grasped a swivel shot.

Hamilton's combative disposition came to the aid of his baser passion when he saw once more a deflant flash from his prisoner's face. It was easy for him to be fascinated by opposition. Helm had profited by this trait as much as others had suffered by it, but in the case of Alice. Hamilton's mingled resentment and admiration were but a powerful irritant to the coarsest and most dangerous side of his nature.

After some fumbling and delay he fitted the key with a steady hand and moved the wooden bolt, creaking and jolting, from its slot. Then flinging the clumsy door wide open, he stepped in.

Alice started when she recognized the midnight intruder, and a second deeper look into his countenance made her brave heart recoil, while with a sinking sensation her breath almost stopped. It was but a momentary weakness, however, followed by vigorous

"What are you here for, sir?" she demanded. "What do you want?"

"I am neither a burglar nor a murderer, mademoiselle," he responded, lifting his hat and bowing, with a smile not in the least reassuring. "You look like both. Stop where you are!" "Not so loud, my dear Miss Roussillon. I am not deaf, and, besides, the garrison needs to sleep."

"Stop, sir; not another step!" She poised herself, leaning slightly backward, and held the iron ball in her right hand ready to throw it at him. He halted, still smiling villainously.

"Mademoiselle, I assure you that your excitement is quite unnecessary I am not here to harm you."

"You cannot harm me, you cowardly wretch!"

"Humph! Pride goes before a fall, wench," he retorted, taking a half step backward. Then a thought arose in his mind which added a new shade to the repellent darkness of his counte-

"Miss Roussillon," he said in English and with a changed voice, which seemed to grow harder, each word deliberately emphasized, "I have come to break some bad news to you."

"You would scarcely bring me good news, sir, and I am not curious to hear He was sflent for a little while, gazing at her with the sort of admiration from which a true woman draws away appalled. He saw how she loathed him, saw how impossible it was for him to get a line nearer to her by any turn of force or fortune. Brave, high headed, strong as a young leopard, pure and sweet as a rose, she stood be fore him fearless, even aggressive showing him by every line of her face and form that she felt her infinite su periority and meant to maintain it. Her whole personal expression told him he was defeated, therefore he quickly seized upon a suggestion caught from a transaction with Long Hair, who had returned a few hours before from his pursuit of Beverley.

"It pains me, I assure you, Miss Roussilion, to tell you what will probably grieve you deeply," he presently added; "but I have not been unaware of your tender interest in Lieutenant she no longer required it." features in their repose a setting that Beverley, and when I had bad news intensified their sweetness and sadness. #### Theatrical Notes.

The "Railroad Jack" company arrived last night from Fulton in its special car and was taken to Murray this morning over the N. C. & St. L.

Manager English has booked Miss Helen Grantly for this season in "In the Palace of the King." Miss Grantly was seen here the past season in 'Her Lord and Master."

"Duke," the South African lion used in "Railroad Jack" is one of the finest and largest, as well as one of the most ferocious animals in captivity, and was imported by Manager Caufman, especially for this production. "Duke" will be drawn through the principal streets of Paducah at 2 o'clock Wednesday, the day of exhibition, weather permitting. Prices 25, 50 and 75 cents

No more characteristic and enchanting personage to read about could be found than Peg Woffington. and when her life has been revealed in a play so masterly written as Charles Reade's the acme of entertainment is reached. This play will be produced at the Kentucky Thursday night by Miss Hortense Neilsen and a capable company. The costuming is of the finest, all historically corect.

Mr. Hanford's performance of "The Taming of the Shrew" at the Kentucky on Saturday, matinee and night, Oct. 24 will be awaited with eager interest by Paducah people. He brings, it is raised, a splendid scenic equipment, surpassing in some respects even those elaborate productions with which he has been brilliantly indentified in the past, and a cast which with the accomplished classic comedienne, Miss Marie Drofnah as leading lady promises a performance that will be complete in every detail.

Part of the performance of "Paul Revere" at The Kentucky Saturday afternoon, was not in the bill. It was in the second act when Richard Buhler, as "Paul Revere," is supposed to jump from the tower across the stage, and mounting a horse ride away. Instead the scaffold broke and precipitated Mr. Buhler into the tower. He was only slightly hurt was but unable to finish the act, although the audience did not know it. He never jumped across the stage or rode off his horse, and the curtain had to be rung down. He was able to go on at night, however, and the act went off without acci-

A large house enjoyed "At Oripple Creek" at the Kentucky theatre last night. The gallery and balcony were packed and there was a good crowd down stairs. The play is an unusually clever melodrama, and there is not tragedy and humor, and its lines are well interpreted by a capable company. Franklin Searight as "Joe Mayfield" the hero, won the hearts of the gallery in the first act and never once lost it. The audience, especially in that part

OLOTHING D SATISFACTION

Perhaps you've never experienced it---lots of men tell us they never DID till they tried our hand-tailored clothes There's a CERTAIN SATIS-FACTION that comes from wearing these clothes that you never obtained from ready-made clothing before. Men who formerly paid the merchant tailor DOUBLE THE PRICE now find the same satisfaction in these clothes. We recommend them to you because they are the highest standard of tailoring--they are built on lines that make them HOLD THEIR SHAPE. They retain their original appearance until they wear out. Those very swagger Homespuns, Cheviots in Stripes and Overplaids and Worsteds in neat checks and figures are shown by us for fall in Hand tailored suits, and the prices are ranging:

HAYES' BEECHWOOD EMULSO-HYPO WITH IRON

Makes Fat, Strength, Blood, Bone and Muscle.

BOGOTA, TENN., March 15, 1903.

Gentlemen:

It affords me no little pleasure to testify to the wonderful properties of Hayes' Beechwood Emulso-Hypo With Iron, as it saved my life when the physicians said I could not get well. After taking six or eight bottles I weighed 180 pounds. That has been ten years ago, and I am still living in fine health. Wishing you success in its sale, I am, yours truly, FERD S. DAWSON.
